

6516208001.txt

I am a truck driver, and I depend on instant weather and traffic in cities that I am traveling to. I can listen to the instant weather and traffic station before I get to the city. This informs me of bad weather conditions, and/or traffic conditions that I may come up on. If I had to listen to an AM or FM radio station, I would have to be close to the city, and would not have time to avoid possible hazardous conditions. This could leave me stranded in traffic for unforeseeable amounts of time. "XM" radio has been the best thing that has happened for the truck drivers since I have been driving. It's not like we are getting "XM" radio free. We make a monthly payment for the service, but I am willing to pay the amount for the service that "XM" radio provides. Thank you,
Raymond Jackson